Scope and Contents

The Story Family Collection includes papers from five generations of this distinguished American family. Two other related families are also represented by a small amount of material, the Waldo and Wetmore families. These three families were connected by the marriage of Joseph Story to Sarah Waldo Wetmore. The collection is arranged by family member's name in alphabetical order. Within each family member's collection, papers are arranged in four series: Works, Letters, Recipient, and Miscellaneous. Some incoming letters previously filed in the Miscellaneous category for a family member have been moved into the Recipient category as they represent letters written to that family member.

Samuel Waldo (1721-1770) was a colonel in the American militia and the maternal grandfather of Sarah Waldo Wetmore. His family is represented by two brief works: some verses and a fragment of a diary.

William Wetmore (1749-1830), an attorney in Massachusetts, was the father of Sarah Waldo Wetmore. The single folder of Wetmore family materials includes an anecdote about an encounter between John Adams and the king.

Elisha Story (1743-1805) is the earliest member of the Story family represented in the collection, a doctor and fervent revolutionary who participated in the Boston Tea Party and several battles of the American Revolutionary War. He is represented by a copy of his last will and testament.

Joseph Story (1779-1845) was among Elisha's numerous children. Joseph studied law and in 1812 at age 32 became the youngest person ever named to the U.S. Supreme Court, where he was an associate justice under Chief Justice John Marshall. Joseph's portion of the collection fills two boxes and consists of various handwritten legal documents, personal papers including his poetry, and incoming and outgoing correspondence. Among his correspondents are Henry Clay, James Monroe, William Pinkney, Josiah Quincy, and Daniel Webster.

Horace Cullen Story (1793-1823) was a brother of Joseph and served as a Lieutenant in the U.S. Corps of Engineers. His collection holds two of his letters.

Sarah Waldo Wetmore Story (1784-1855), who married Joseph in 1808, is represented by two folders of letters to her children and a few incoming letters.

Of Joseph Story's several children, only two survived into adulthood: Mary Oliver Story Curtis, who married George Ticknor Curtis and is represented by a single incoming letter, and William Wetmore Story (1819-1895). William set out to study law like his father, but his talents as artist and writer diverted him into a career as sculptor, poet, novelist, and dramatist. Although largely forgotten today, he was considered one of the foremost sculptors of his time. He married Emelyn Eldredge Story (1821-1894) and they lived primarily in Rome, Italy. Eliza Ann White Story was the daughter of William White and married an unidentified Story family member. She addressed William Wetmore Story as "cousin." Her letters primarily concern family history.

William Wetmore Story's papers constitute the bulk of the Story family collection; they fill over seven boxes, four of which contain manuscripts of his works. Much of his correspondence involved his pursuit of anecdotes for his two-volume biography of his father, Life and Letters of Joseph Story (1851). Among his correspondents are Lydia Maria Child, Charlotte Cushman, James Russell Lowell, Harriet Martineau, J. P. Morgan, Charles Eliot Norton, William Tecumseh Sherman, Charles Sumner, and Bayard Taylor.

Emelyn Eldredge Story's part of the collection consists of handwritten reminiscences of Story family life, two scrapbooks mostly related to William's career, and one box of incoming correspondence, including letters from Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, George Ticknor Curtis, Charlotte Cushman, Margaret Fuller, and Silas Weir Mitchell.

William and Emelyn had four children: Edith Marion Story (1844-1907) who married the Marquis Simone Peruzzi; Joseph Story (b. 1853), who died young; Thomas Waldo Story (1855-1915), who was also a sculptor; and Julian Russell Story (1857-1919), a painter who was married twice, both times to opera singers, his first wife being Emma Eames Story (1865-1952). Edith Marion Story's portion of the papers consists of a single folder of outgoing and incoming letters, Julian Russell Story is represented by a single letter and a pencil sketch of his niece Gwendolyn as a baby, and Emma Eames Story's portion contains four outgoing letters.

Thomas Waldo Story (called Waldo by his family) is represented largely by incoming correspondence. Among his correspondents are Bernard Berenson, Richard D'Oyly Carte, Francis Marion Crawford, Antonio Mancini, and Walter Richard Sickert. Waldo and his wife, Maud Broadwood Story (1856-1932) of the English piano manufacturing family, also kept a book of letters from notable persons. The contents are catalogued in this guide as part of Waldo's papers under two headings: Recipient (for letters that were originally laid into the book and were at some point removed and interfiled with the rest of his correspondence) and Miscellaneous II (for letters still mounted in the book itself). Among the correspondents in the book are Gabriele d'Annunzio, Richard Barthelemy, Lewis Carroll, Jean-Joseph Benjamin-Constant, Cecil Rhodes, Auguste Rodin, Siegfried Wagner, Edith Wharton, and James Abbott McNeill Whistler.

Maud's part of the papers consists mostly of incoming correspondence. Some of her correspondents are Douglas Ainslie, Elinor Glyn, Axel Munthe, Charles Eliot Norton, Clara Novello, James Rennell Rodd, and John Singer Sargent. Maud also kept an autograph book between the years 1885-1931, which includes greetings and autographs by Robert Browning, G. K. Chesterton, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Henry James, G. B. Shaw, and Oscar Wilde, among others.

The Story Family Collection appears to have come into the possession of Waldo and Maud after the death of William Wetmore Story. Many of the documents bear a stamped impression of Waldo's name, even when they were produced by older members of the family, and Maud's handwriting is present throughout the collection in notations written on the backs of documents.

Waldo and Maud had two children: Gwendolyn Marion Waldo Story Stewart (1884-) and Vivien Waldo Story (b. 1890), who died young. Gwendolyn married Romeo Antonio Gallenga Stuart, who was also known as Courtney Stewart. Gwendolyn is represented by five folders of both outgoing and incoming correspondence, the bulk consisting of letters to her father, Waldo.

A valuable guide to members of the Story family and their circle is Goldia Hester, Calendar of the Letters of William Wetmore and Emelyn Eldredge Story, 1843-1890 (master's thesis), University of Texas at Austin, 1961. See especially the index of names mentioned in the correspondence of William and Emelyn.

Explanatory Note Concerning Manuscript Collections Cataloged in the Card Catalog

Prior to 1990 when archival cataloging procedures were adopted at the Ransom Center, all manuscript collections were described in a card catalog.

Organization of Collections:

- Manuscripts for each author collection were organized into four categories:
- Works: manuscripts by the author, arranged alphabetically by title;
- Letters: the author's outgoing correspondence, arranged alphabetically by recipient name;
- Recipient: the author's incoming correspondence, arranged alphabetically by the author of the letter; and
- Miscellaneous: all other manuscripts and correspondence, arranged alphabetically by creator.

Materials that did not fit into these categories, such as art, photographs, books, and near-print materials such as newspaper clippings, were dispersed to other Ransom Center collections for cataloging and storage.

Abbreviations Used in Descriptions:

The symbols below were used in combinations. For example ALS means autograph letter signed; Tccms means typed carbon copy manuscript, etc.

- A = autograph (i.e., handwritten)
